

Why... ADESTE?

To be successful in this highly competitive global marketplace, a business must stay focused and outperform the competition. Focusing on what you do best, means you don't have the time to manage your networking and telecommunications needs, while continuing to provide your customers with the high quality goods and services you're famous for. Let Adeste Global Managed Networks Inc. focus on what they do best.

Taking care of your communication needs. Some call it outsourcing; others call it partnering. We call it smart business. Everytime you invoice your customers you outsource to the post office for delivery. When you buy electricity from your local power company, when you call for a repair to your photocopier, you're leveraging the abilities of your business partners. Take advantage of Adeste's expertise in:

- Network design, planning, and installation
- Hardware/Software/Engineering/Installation
- Network application development, customization and support
- Billing services and network cost optimization
- Superior maintenance and warranty services

We deliver cost-effective project management and professional services that include on-site technical support, documented and improved service levels on your networks, as well as access to hardware and software from leading vendors of networking equipment. We will work with you to customize our services to meet your unique needs.
